

Newly updated webinar: The Impact on global Collection Amid the pandemic

Under the impact of trade war and epidemic, global enterprises are suffering from the unprecedented impact of the deteriorating business environment and are struggling in this storm throughout 2020. RMS is going to hold a webinar to share how to avoid bad debts and achieve profit gains amid pandemic.

While governments are fighting the epidemic, they are also pushing hard to help businesses restart their economic activities! However, the epidemic has caused many enterprises around the world to close down or be on the verge of closing down. In addition to the high risk of doing business, other factors have brought an even greater burden to enterprises of all sizes. These include the nearly paralyzed cross-country transportation, employees working from home or being quarantined, the debt collection guidelines by governments during the epidemic, and the continuous changes of corporate information. Proper credit analysis and financial management to avoid bad debts and achieve profit gain have become the most concerned operational issue during this time.

This webinar will explore strategies on default risk warning and debt recovery management for international trades, by integrating risks forecasts and market researches, through the application of RMS Big Data Analytics and global debt collection experiences.
